HERRING NEWS.

No Frost Yet Reported at Fortune Bay N. F.

Sch. Lena and Maud Has Hard Homeward Passage.

Sch. Belle J. Neal of Boston is here from the Bay of Islands, N. F., with a mixed cargo of salt herring, smoked herring and oil. The vessel left Boston last July and thus has been gone seven months.

Sch. Lena and Maud, Capt. Joseph E. Graham, arrived this morning from Fortune Bay, N. F., with the first cargo of frozen herring from there this season. The vessel has had a long and exceptionally rough passage, gales and head winds meeting her almost every day.

Dispatches from Fortune Bay, N. F. report seven seiners now working and getting from 40 to 90 barrels of herring a day, but there is no frost.

Schs. Sarah E. Lee and Lawrence A. Munroe went to New York last night with their cargoes of frozen herring.

The Independent Herring Company had another carload of naturally frozen herring this morning.

Sch. Priscilla Smith will lay here a while and then go to New York with her cargo of frozen herring.

Sch. Richard Wainwright on the way home from Philadelphia passed Reedy island on Wednesday.

AT PLACENTIA BAY.

Large Herring and Mild Weather Is the Report.

British Schooner Has Frozen Cargo at Boston.

A telegram from Burke Bros. reports weather at Fortune Bay still mild and sch. Tattler still with the fleet at Rencontre.

A telegram from Placentia Bay, N. F., this morning reports a quantity of large herring there but weather mild.

Sch. Elizabeth N., of Bucksport, Me., will combine what frozen herring sch. T. M. Nicholson has with part of a cargo at Placentia Bay, and sail for this port.

Two other vessels will soon be on the way with full or nearly full cargoes.

Br. sch. Mint, from Bay of Islands, N. F., is at Boston to day with 1000 bbls. frozen herring.

A St. John's, N. F., despatch of Wednesday says that the winter herring fishing at Placentia bay is now over. It has proved the very worst on record, the continued mild weather making it impossible to freeze the fish. About 20 fishing vessels from Massachusetts visited Placentia and Fortune Bays, but few obtained full cargoes. Canadian vessels had equally poor success.

Thus far this season 23 American and one Canadian vessels have arrived with frozen herring cargoes. There are yet 18 American vessels at Newfoundland for frozen herring.

Herring Notes.

In speaking of the scarcity of herring at Fortune and Placentia Bays, the same paper says:

"Here in Bay of Islands herring are available at $1.25 per barrel and so plentiful that we could glut the American market in a fortnight. But Bay of Islands has been forsaken by the American skippers for some weeks now—why, we cannot understand. There is not a particle of s'ob-ice in sight, the weather is fine and all the conditions are favorable for the carrying on of the fishery. Herring were so abundant last week in parts of this bay that on one calm day the surface of the sea appeared all disturbed for miles. At Molver's the water was a mass of bubbles, showing the herring to be very numerous there."

The Bay of Islands, N. F., Western Star of February 12 contains the following items of interest:

"Bonne Bay has done pretty well out of the winter herring fishery. The catch down there will be about 16,000 barrels."

"Herring sold at $4 a barrel in Placentia last week."

"Why was it that no American vessels entered at this port of entry the past season? The Golden Rod and other vessels called here, but were told they would have to go up the bay, 20 miles, to get through the customs. Had they been allowed to enter here they would have saved much time and secured herring the first day they arrived."

"Our people did fairly well at the fishery this winter, but might have done better. They all came home shortly after Christmas to repair their nets, and so forth, expecting some Americans to call here to load, but as none called the fishery was declared over."

The Independent Herring Company has a carload of down east naturally frozen herring here to-day.

The cargo of sch. A. M. Nicholson has sold to George T. Moon of Fulton Market, New York.

Sch. Mystery arrived at Philadelphia yesterday.

Sch. Sarah E. Lee passed City Island, N. Y., yesterday.

Sch. Grayling, bound home loaded with a cargo of coal, was at Port Reading on Friday.

Herring Notes.

The St. John's N. F., Herald, of Feb. 12 says that at Sound Island, Placentia Bay, the herring fishery to date has been the poorest for years. Three Americans were there yesterday morning offering $1.40 per basket or $5 per barrel. At Woody Island yesterday there were two Americans but they could not get fish. All the scaffolds contain scores of barrels of rotten herring, there being no weather to freeze and the best man in the bay has only made $18.

A dispatch from Placentia Bay, N. F., last evening reports no herring there.

Sch. Grayling, from Port Reading sailed from Vineyard Haven for this port yesterday.

Fishing Facts and Fancies.

Much disappointment is felt in Maine over the failure of congress to appropriate an additional $10,000 for lobster hatchery at Boothbay, on the urgent deficiency appropriation bill.
